

BREAKING OUT OF YOUR BOX
Video by
MICHAEL SLAUGHTER

What is Ginghamburg Church's media revolution all about?
Michael Slaughter and team models the effective sight-and-sound church of the 21st century as they introduce the four life pulses that churches must embrace in order to communicate with a post-modern generation.

Available from The International Centre for Leadership Development and Evangelism. 1-800-804-0777

OUTLINE

Begins with musical - everyday people

Michael gives statistics on people leaving the Church

The elements of the post-modern era:

Spirit:

Post-modern means post-scientific, there is a spiritual quality

Interviews with campus attendees, what does it mean to love God?

They want experience, not rationale – sight, sound, and feel

Example of how to introduce the experience in a worship service

Flesh:

Did not remain an abstract idea

Incarnation is where secular and sacred meet life

Difficulty of integrating old metaphor – example “All hail the power”

Video clip Easter weekend worship – God Can

Video clip solo – from God Spell – youth quest to see God at work in the city

Post – Literate means using a multiplicity of sensual learning experiences

Martin Luther King – on prejudice – the Gospel is NOT SEEKER SENSITIVE it is offensive

Significance

Boomers set out to change the world we are trying to find what we were going to change

Video clip – showing how a banker found significance helping a high risk child not looking for committees but significance

Relationship

Healing happens when people touch people

Interview testimonial – Amy, homeless person living in a garage

Video clip – Bev's story, prostitute, drug addict

There is a craving for relationships where they can be accepted unconditionally

Cat Stevens – Cat's in the Cradle

Not only connect people with God but with people